THE EVENING STAR, WASHINGTON, D. C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1922.

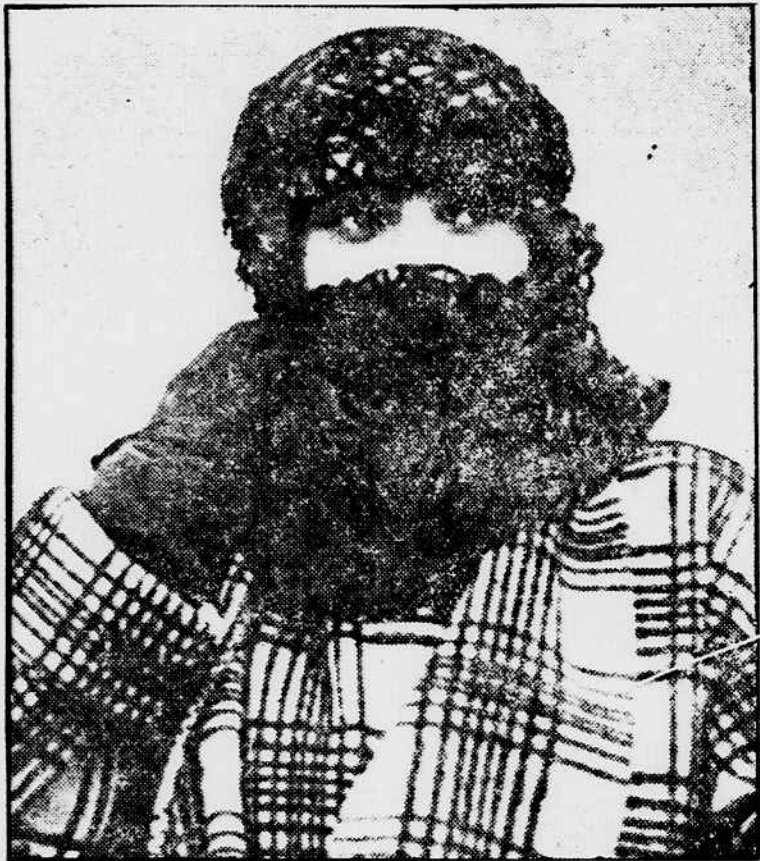

HEIRESS GOES IN FOR CAREER. Although she is an heiress to $50,000,000, Miss Dorothy Cannon of Chicago has taken up a musical career. Her recent debut, singing the Flower Maiden in "Parsifal," was a triumph, according to critics. Wide World Photo.

ALL ABOARD FOR ITALY. Giuseppe Bignola, circus performer, who is forty-six inches tall, and his bride, who was Miss Irene Thompson, leave Washington for New York, where they will board a steamer for Italy. They were married in Washington and will spend their honeymoon in Italy with relatives. National Photo.

ENGLAND PREPARES FOR CHRISTMAS SEASON. Roast goose has always been a favorite Christmas dinner, and the Britishers must have their special dish. This photograph was taken on a Midland poultry farm. Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

AND NOW THE TURKISH VEIL. It is claimed to be the latest in "ocean togethery"—that is, clothes for the trip abroad. This veil is worn by Mme. Louise Iart, wife of a French portrait painter. Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

BOY SCOUT GETS HIGHEST HONOR MEDAL. Scene at ceremony in Los Angeles, Calif., when William Cannon, sixteen years old, was awarded the National Boy Scout Medal of Honor for saving two women from drowning at Honolulu a year ago. The boy fought a strong tide and high waves in making the rescues. Copyright by P. & A. Photos.

NEXT QUEEN OF ENGLAND, MAYBE! Reports from the British Isles persist in mentioning Lady Mary Cambridge, daughter of the Marquis of Cambridge, as the probable bride of the Prince of Wales, and it is reported that the British look with favor upon such an alliance. Wide World Photo.

Among the prominent visitors at the White House yesterday afternoon was Sir P. S. Sivaawamy Aiyer, K. C. S. I., of India, who is making a tour of the United States and delivering lectures on his country. Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

AFTER THE CAMPAIGN. Gov.-elect Al Smith of New York photographed at Hot Springs, Va., where he is spending several weeks recuperating from a strenuous campaign. He is enjoying the outdoor sports of the mountain resort. Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

Miss Dorothy Addington of St. Paul, Minn., found an aged map in an old trunk. She followed its directions, and on a farm ten miles from the city dug up a small iron box containing $750 in gold. So there is buried treasure after all! Wide World Photo.

"FAIREST GRANDMOTHER OF BRITAIN." From the photograph one would not suspect that she is a grandmother, but such is a fact. She is the Marchioness of Camden, and the youngster is her grandchild, Lady Mary Clementina Pratt. Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

QUEER CHINESE ART. One piece in unique exhibition recently opened in London. It is a specimen of the many armed Chinese Goddess of Mercy, made in the early eighteenth century and valued at $50,000. Wide World Photo.

SOUTHWARD HE JERKS ALONG. When the first snow appears, when, early in the morning, the thermometer stands about the 30 mark, then this fellow and all his impedimenta start southward—migrating like the birds. He is the tin-can tourist. Wide World Photo.
